BERLIN ORDERS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received March 29, 11.07 a.m.)

Brunswick, Mar. 29.

The threatened quarrel between
The Nazi Party and the Steel Helmet organisation following the raid on the Steel Helmet guardhouse has been patched up.

The Government of the Reich
(in which the Nazis and the Steel Helmet leaders are allies) has ordered the rescinding of the Brunswick ban on the Steel Helmet, as from Saturday, April 1.

ACTION APPROVED.

At the same time, the Government has expressed approval of the "energetic action" taken by the Nazi Minister of the Interior, Herr Klagges, who, on discovery of an apparent anti-Nazi plot, ordered the dissolution of the Steel Helmet organisation in Brunswick.—Reuter.

EINSTEIN DECLARES "BOYCOTT"

NOT RETURNING TO GERMANY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received March
29, 10.18 a.m.)

Antwerp, Mar. 29.

Professor Albert Einstein, the famous German Jewish scientist and mathematician, who has announced that he will never return to Germany as long as liberty of thought is denied to all citizens of that country, arrived in Antwerp to-day.

He was welcomed by the Burgmaster of Antwerp and a delegation of professors from Belgian and Dutch universities, together with the President of the Belgian Zionist Federation.

Professor Einstein proposes to stay for five months on the Belgian coast.—Reuter.

HITLER DECLARES WAR ON JEWS

BOYCOTT THROUGHOUT
GERMANY

Berlin, Mar. 28.

"The Nazi Party has declared a universal boycott against Jews of all professions and business in reply to the anti-German boycott planned by Jews abroad."

The boycott of all Jews in Germany will begin at 10 a.m. on April 1 and will be enforced throughout Germany.

Committees of Action will be set up and made responsible for seeing that only the guilty suffer and also for the freedom of all foreigners, regardless of race or origin.

The Committees will popularise the anti-Jewish boycott by propaganda.

Newspapers which do not join in the boycott campaign will be banned by every German household and no German businessman will be allowed to advertise in such newspapers.

"PEACE AND ORDER."

It is announced by the Nazis that the anti-Jewish Boycott Committees will be responsible for seeing that "every German with an account abroad shall use it to spread the truth that peace and order prevail in Germany."

The Committees will also ensure that only a strict proportion of Jews, corresponding to the proportion of total Jews to the whole population, will be allowed to attend High Schools or be admitted

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS LINER DISASTER

FIFTEEN KILLED IN CRASH

GIANT PLANE BURSTS
INTO FLAME

PASSENGERS LEAP FOR LIFE

Lieut. Baillie Stewart, snapped during exercise in the Tower of London in the company of an officer guard.

OFFICER FOUND GUILTY

"SPY" TRIAL
DECISION

THREE OF CHARGES
HELD PROVED

OTHERS NOT YET DISPOSED OF

London, Mar. 28.

The protracted trial of Lieutenant N. Baillie-Stewart, of the Sea-forth Highlanders, on ten charges under the Official Secrets Act, terminated to-day.

It took the Court two and a half hours to reach a decision, after which it was announced that the General Court Martial had found the prisoner guilty on three of the alternative charges.

With regard to the other seven charges, the Court announced that the decision would be submitted to higher authorities for consideration. The proceedings then terminated.

IRREVOCABLE STEP.

Prior to the retirement of the Court, the Judge-Advocate, summing-up, concluded with a warning that the Court must be satisfied beyond such doubt as would cause them to "hesitate to take an irrevocable step in some event of great moment in your lives."

Much of the evidence in the trial, which took place at Chelsea Barracks, was heard in camera and for that reason most of the salient points in the case have not been made public.

ARRESTED IN JANUARY.

Lieutenant Baillie-Stewart was placed under close arrest at Aldershot on January 20 and was kept in close confinement at the Tower of London from January 23 until the opening of the trial last week.

For some weeks, the War Office withheld the name of the officer detained and Lieut. Baillie-Stewart thereby became world-famous as "the mysterious figure in the Tower."

WAR OFFICE CRITICISED.

The methods of the War Office in the case have been subjected to considerable criticism. In a letter of protest to the London newspaper, the Lieutenant's father declared that his son was not informed of the charges against him for several weeks, that he had a sentry alongside him with a fixed bayonet whilst he shaved—an indignity which only a condemned person might expect while actually he had not been tried—that consultations between the prisoner and his solicitor were hampered by constant interruptions by officers entering the room, that Lieut. Baillie-Stewart was every night awakened every two hours by sentries, playing on his nerves during a period of considerable mental strain.

The trial commenced last week and remarkable revelations were made regarding the Lieutenant's association with a German woman described as Marie Louise.

The sentence will be promulgated in due course.—Reuter.

LONDON, MAR. 28.
ALL TWELVE PASSENGERS AND THE CREW OF THREE WERE KILLED IN A SHOCKING AIR DISASTER WHICH OCCURRED THIS AFTER-NOON WHEN THE IMPERIAL AIRWAYS LINER, CITY OF LIVERPOOL, PROCEEDING FROM
COLOGNE AND BRUSSELS TO CROYDON, CRASH-ED AND CAUGHT FIRE NEAR DIXMUDE, FLAND-ERS.

Four of the occupants appear to have made an attempt to escape when the plane was hurtling to the ground. Their bodies were found some distance away indicating that they jumped as the plane fell.

The names of the passengers, eight British, three German and one Belgian, are believed to be:

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dibdin.

Mr. and Mrs. Irlath.

Miss Forrester Thompson.

Miss Voss.

Mr. Rowland, possibly Sir John Rowland, the chairman of Leemans (Twilfit) Limited.

Messrs. Dearden, Krieglinger, Rowsall, Thompson, and Voss.
The pilot was Captain Leulen and the other members of the crew were Mr. E. F. Stubbs (engineer) and Mr. W. R. Brown (wireless operator).

EXPLOSION BEFORE ACTUAL CRASH.

The crash occurred about twenty miles to the north of Dixmude.
There was a rush of rescuers from the surrounding district, but it was soon discovered that not a single person aboard had escaped alive.

Four of the victims who jumped from the machine apparently attempted to use their parachutes, which failed to open, probably by reason of their nervousness to the ground. The bodies of these victims were found from one to three hundred feet from the wreckage of the plane.

BURST INTO FLAME.

The machine appears to have burst into flame in the air over Eesen and then to have fallen into a field at Woumer.

The pilot, Captain Leulen served in India, Egypt, and Mesopotamia during the war.

Eye-witnesses of the fatal crash of the City of Liverpool state that they saw smoke issue from the air-liner, which suddenly burst into flames.

WING BREAKS OFF.

The machine began to fall and then suddenly went into a spin.
One of the engines exploded as she was going down.

A wing broke off and fell, nearly killing two girls working in the field.
Captain Leulen was seen to be still vainly trying to regain control of the machine, which refused to respond and crashed.

A passenger, believed to be Mr.
Albert Voss, whose dead body was found some distance from the plane, was seen to jump out.

VIOLENT EXPLOSION.

Then the machine crashed from a height of two or three hundred feet, the impact being followed by a violent explosion.

It is thought that Miss Thomson was then flung out of the plane.

The scene of the disaster was illuminated in the evening by the headlights of many motor-cars which brought a large number of

U.S. SALARY CUTS

ALL GOVERNMENT
EMPLOYEES

AND THE DEFENCE
FORCES

(Special to "Telegraph")

(Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received March 29, 12.11 p.m.)

Washington, Mar. 26.
President Roosevelt has ordered a cut of fifteen per cent. in the salaries of all Government employees.

The order is to take effect as from Saturday next, April 1, and the term all employees of the Government is officially stated to include all in the Army, the Navy and the Air Force.

The reduction is made under the provisions of the Economy Bill recently approved by Congress and the step will permit a saving of $325,000,000.

The President's Proclamation declares that the cost of living in the United States has declined by 21.7 per cent. since 1928. The reduction, therefore, is justified on this ground alone.—Reuter.

Tentative arrangements for the holding of a welterweight contest between Fred Barry, of H.M.S.
Berwick, and Cecil Como, the rugged American battler, have information that H. M. S. Berwick

Mr. Fernando Rein Y Loring, the

Manila, is at present in Thakhet, French Indo-China.

He left Thakhet yesterday in an attempt to reach Hanoi, but owing to the unfavourable weather, heavy clouds and poor visibility, he was unable to cross the mountains and returned to Thakhet.

Loring is expected to make a further attempt to reach Hanoi to-day. If he is successful in crossing the mountains, he will land at Hanoi for a few minutes only, for re-provisioning and refueling, and will take off again immediately for Hongkong.

OIL PRICE WAR

REDUCTIONS IN

Shanghai, Mar. 29.

Gasoline prices in Shanghai were reduced yesterday by five cents a gallon, the Asiatic Petroleum Company and the Standard Oil Company of New York taking simultaneous action.

There is a belief that a price war may develop, although a definite has been issued until any price war is planned.

The reduction in price has been brought about by the competition of Soviet oil interests and the cut is not likely to make the position of the A.P.C. and S.O.C.O.N.E. any wetter as the spokesman of the Soviet interests said to-day:

"For some time at least our price will always be lower than the price of other gasoline."—Reuter.

"FRIGHTFUL" CASE OF SMALLPOX

MAN FOUND WORKING IN RESTAURANT

A prosecution brought by the Sanitary Department under the bye-laws governing the notification of infectious diseases was investigated by Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning, when Lung Lai-yu, in charge of a restaurant at 129-131 Johnston Road, Wanchai, was summoned for failing to notify that his foki, Chan Yau, was suffering from smallpox on March 21.

The hearing was adjourned, in order that medical evidence might be produced. Defendant said the foki had been suffering from small-pox. He went to the country on February 8 and returned on March 19, when he had fully recovered.
Sanitary inspector Lockhart said that on March 21, Sanitary Inspector Bowden was walking in Johnston Road, when he saw the man in a frightful stage of small-pox. He was shelling prawns inside the restaurant, in company with two women. Inspector Lockhart went down and directed the patient to be removed by ambulance to the Kennedy Town Infectious Diseases Hospital. He produced a certificate of entry.

YESTERDAY'S MARKET DULL

According to Messrs. Swan, Gilbertson and Fritz, the New York market was dull yesterday. Business done: 600,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports: The market was dull and stocks lagged until the last hour when they spurred from one to three points due to the strength of Grain and Cotton. The former went up due to unfavourable crop news in the Southwest Pacific and Northwest, the latter owing to the belief that the Farm Bill may really restrict production of stock. Traders were also pending a more definite trend.

felt buys only two evening frocks a year. At the inaugural ball she will wear a frock that has seen quite a good deal of service this season.

She bought all the dresses she will need at the White House one morning in New York. Most of them are of a shade of blue that used to be called periwinkle, but has been named "Eleanor blue" in her honour. She has very little interest in clothes. Recently a man wrote to her: "I admire you and Mr. Roosevelt very much but where in Heaven's name do you get those hats?" Mrs. Roosevelt laughed. She couldn't remember herself. Most of her shopping is done for her.

Her total jewellery consists of a plain gold wedding ring and an engagement ring Franklin bought her 30 years ago. Husband and wife are cousins, and have been in love as long as they can remember.

Anglo-Dutch would not be advisable in Germany. Climatic conditions do not permit of such wooden structures and there are no funds available for concrete buildings. As regards the programme proper, it may be said that there will be no change in the athletic and boxing competitions. Riding competitions are to be enlarged by a ladies' jump.

A hotly contested issue is the projected football tournament. Although Germany would seem willing to have this competition included in the programme, no final decision will be arrived at before the question of the football championship of the world has been finally settled. This contest is to take place for the first time next year in Italy.

The projected Hockey tournament seems however practically certain, since India has agreed to attend. Germany's geographical situation will make it possible for a far greater number of European nations to attend. Particularly strong teams are expected from England and Holland.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

In conclusion it may be stated that Germany, supported by other countries, is endeavouring to have a tennis competition put in, but it remains to be seen whether this plan will materialize.

Berlin's vast resources in art and science may be expected to add to the attractions of the purely sporting programme for the visiting public. Museums will be roped in to afford space for many entertainments. Anti-que theatrical shows are, for instance, to be staged on the stairs of the famous Pergamon Altar. Berlin's theatres and concert halls in special performances will give foreign visitors a taste of Germany's art. Potsdam, the residence of Frederick the Great, will provide special entertainments on historic ground. Thus, sports will compete in fair rivalry with art and this, according to Herr Leward's words, will be the motto for the Berlin Olympiad for 1936.

WAR DEBTS

Although the Roosevelt Administration has not yet reached any definite decision in regard to the war debt problem, there seems every reason, after reading between the lines of recent pronouncements, that a scaling down might be agreed to, provided the United States is given a quid pro quo in the form of increased facilities for trade with the debtor nations. In the case of Britain, in particular, a feeling undoubtedly does exist in America that inasmuch as she got the worst bargain of all in her funding agreement, a reduction could with justice be made. The tariff issue arises here, and it remains to be seen whether Britain is prepared to open the doors wider for American imports. This raises a nice point, since it has been claimed by the British Government that the British tariffs were introduced chiefly as a bargaining lever, in order to secure better terms by inducing a mutual lowering of barriers. The question, therefore, is whether Britain would be willing to modify her tariffs in favour of the United States, merely for the purpose of securing a revision of the debt agreement, whilst at the same time America's tariffs remain unaltered. This is the problem, also, which will face America's other debtors, since it seems clear that it is on this basis that revision is likely to be considered. The next instalments of the debt are due on June 15th, and it appears that if agreement to pay cannot be secured, a moratorium may be granted until such time as accord is reached. The negotiations were to have started before now, but the domestic banking and other emergency questions have been a factor in the delay. In the case of Britain, the ground has been somewhat prepared by the visit to England of the British Ambassador to Washington and his conferences with the U.S. Secretary of State since his return. In the main, the Roosevelt Administration appears likely to follow the lines foreshadowed by Mr. Hoover, making modifications contingent on securing trade concessions. The British instalment, due in June, totals $375,950,000. But it has already been made plain by the British Government that there is no intention of continuing payments on the old basis. In the case of France, she failed to pay the $319,261,432 due last December, but it is believed that the Chamber of Deputies may shortly vote on a proposal to tender the payment, despite the delay, and thus open up the way to new negotiations.

The "Third Colonial System"

Twenty years ago, what the government of a great power chose to do in its own colonies was assumed to be nobody's business but its own. To realize how times have changed one has only to glance over the latest report of the Permanent Mandates Commission to the Council of the League of Nations. The Japanese Government was asked to say plainly whether it was establishing a naval base in the islands of the Pacific, and the French Government was reminded that the time was approaching when not only part of Syria, but all of it, might be expected to make good use of its promise of independence. The mandates system has already, only fourteen years after its institution, passed beyond the experimental stage. Under this system, the Kingdom of Irak has completed its apprenticeship and become a master state in the worshipful company of nations. Placed in its proper historical perspective, the mandates regime now stands revealed as a new era in colonial affairs, following after two distinct epochs in the past. The first of these has been called the "old colonial system." Then a colony was maintained solely in the interest and profit of the mother country—and the mother country frequently assumed a very stepmotherly attitude. After this system had in some degree brought about its own undoing, as evidenced by the successful revolt of the American colonies, a new era had its beginnings in the British Empire through the granting of self-government to the principal overseas dominions. The "new colonial system" introduced elements of freedom and consent into the colonial relationship to such a degree that the regime was recognized both in Britain and overseas to be a vast improvement over its predecessor. To-day a new generation of candidates is marching up the aisle to receive degrees in the university of statehood. Theirs has been a comparatively sheltered career. The kindly consideration which they have received, and the concern with which their discipline has been tempered, will no doubt be reflected in their careers as independent states. The world's concept of what colonial administration should be has been leavened by their example.

Tariff Walls

Authoritative hints of the possibility of American tariff adjustments to enable war debts to be paid have raised hopes in many quarters outside as well as inside the United States that the upward trend of duties to which the world has been subjected will soon be arrested. According to the League of Nations World Economic Survey for 1931-32, the upward movement of the tariffs of the last three years "was undoubtedly accentuated both by the alarm and resentment felt in many countries as the discussion of the new Hawley-Smoot tariff dragged on in the United States Congress from May, 1929, to June, 1930, and by the real effects of that tariff when it went into operation." If this diagnosis be correct, any movement in a downward direction started by the United States should similarly spread across the world. The hope that President-Elect Roosevelt will reverse the tariff flow is therefore buoying up a great company of business men whose trade tide has been running out while that of tariffs has been running in. In the circumstances, it is important to see where best to start damming the tariff tide. It would be unreasonable to expect it to get flowing at full speed in the opposite direction all at once. A useful step would be to lower the duties on goods which are still being imported in spite of the height of the tariff wall. The United States, for instance, is still buying tweeds and serges from Great Britain in spite of a tariff of 50 cents a pound plus 50 per cent. of the value. Similarly, American machine tools are successfully negotiating the British tariff of 20 per cent. If the rates of duty on these articles went down, the amount of business might confidently be expected to go up.

A WOMAN DYNAMO

By R. J. CRUIKSHANK

The new mistress of the White House has been called a dynamo with a smile. She sums up in herself all the aspirations of the most advanced feminists in the United States.

This younger generation considers that the old problem "Husband versus Career" has lost all reality.

It believes that real freedom for women consists of a combination of personal interests with a happy marriage, a devotion to public service with the rearing of a brood of healthy children.

It is because Mrs. Roosevelt has been able to achieve all these things in such a marked degree that she is the idol of the progressive women of the country. In fact, the mistress of the White House, the First Lady of the Land, as she is called in Washington society, may be fairly described as the very Newest Woman.

"Every woman," she says, "has a right to lead her individual life." It is a duty she owes to her husband and children as well as herself. Two days each week, no matter where she may be, Mrs. Roosevelt travels to New York to teach history and the English classics to the children of the Todhunter School. During her arduous years as the Governor's wife at Albany she never once failed the Todhunter School. She also runs the Val Kill furniture shop, which brings her a small income and provides employment for a number of people.

During recent months she has raised a great deal of money for her charities by a series of radio talks given under commercial sponsorship. She is in great demand as an after-dinner speaker, she sometimes fills speaking engagements for her husband, she edits a monthly magazine, she makes it a point of pride never to ignore an appeal for help, and she is a passionate bookworm.

One of her countless useful activities during the past five years was taking a class of young students into the New York State Legislature to show them exactly how the people's laws are made. Her time is budgeted to the last minute. She writes on trains, reads in bed, knits while listening to speeches. She has never known a day's illness, and she has brought up five children remarkable for their good looks and splendid physique. Her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dail, is one of the prettiest girls in New York, and her mother's inseparable companion.

Mrs. Roosevelt is an extremely hospitable woman, and loves entertaining for her husband. Their dinners at Albany and Hyde Park are famous for their friendly atmosphere. The Roosevelts are one of those families that think and act as one, a family that religiously honours all its domestic festivals.

My Partner and Myself

At the same time, no public man in the United States gets more valuable help from his wife than the new President. Mrs. Roosevelt, indeed, proposes to extend the responsibilities of the President's wife. She said recently, "From my previous life in Washington, I know how difficult it is for a man once he gets there to keep in touch with public opinion. That is where I believe I can help, since my husband's mail is so tremendous he cannot possibly look at it all. I think that my correspondence is the avenue through which we can keep in touch with the public, and that it will give us a real picture of the life of the country. So I hope that people will write to me in Washington."

This is the first time that the wife of a President has used the plural "we," and it suggests that Mrs. Roosevelt is looking at the Presidency as a partnership venture. The average mistress of the White House is as quiet as a mouse, and is not expected to do anything more dynamic than offer an oyster patty to the third secretary of the Lithuanian Legation. Mrs. Roosevelt intends to give reality to the title of the First Lady of the Land.

Freedom For Children

Her views are those of a woman whom wide experience of human beings has made liberal and tolerant. She is devoted to the great English classics, and never travels without a bundle of books, but she would not force reading on a child who has no taste for it. She has always been a Dry, but is opposed to Prohibition heart and soul, and she angered the political Drys by declaring that the average American girl of to-day is faced with the problem of learning, very young, of how much intoxicants she can drink with safety, and then sticking to the proper quantity. That was the candid thought of a mother who knows society as it is, and understands the perils of her children are not to be met by pretending they do not exist.

"I believe very strongly it is better to allow children too much freedom than too little," she says, "that it is better for them to get their feet wet than to be told at the age of fifteen to put on their rubbers. Each generation must learn by its own experience, and though it may be hard to watch our children go through the same mistakes that we made ourselves, it will do no good to pursue them with warnings. All we can do is to be worthy of their confidence." Mrs. Roosevelt never established a nursery in her home, and encouraged her children to take part in the conversation with the visitors to the house from the earliest years.

Dress Simplicity

Wealthy and leisured women in the United States have chided Mrs. Roosevelt for being so undignified as to earn money while her husband is a public man. She has worked principally to keep her favourite charities alive, but secondarily to supplement the family income. Contrary to general belief, Mr. Roosevelt is not a rich man. Compared with Mr. Hoover, he is poor. He is a country gentleman who inherited about one hundred thousand dollars from his father, and a similar amount from his half-brother. The beautiful Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park belongs to the President's mother.

Despite the great amount of entertaining she does, Mrs. Roosevelt knows how difficult it is for a

The Very Idea!

THE EXPOSE

By The Kelly Headache.

Kelly is sick. At least that's what the lazy devil says. He was, sick last week, and poor little Junior had to write his column. Now that he's been on the beer again, it falls to the lot of the poor household drudge to do his work.

Being only his wife, of course, it's not for the likes of me to complain. Being only the poor, wretched slave that he took young unsophisticated and innocent from a mother's loving arms, who am I to utter a word? But let me tell you, Mr. Editor, just the sort of a husband he's been to me.

I know the wretch only married me for my money. And since that unhappy day, he's taken my all. He has tramped on my girlish affections, in the same way as he tramples into the house with his muddy boots.

I've tried—oh, how I've tried to reform him. I've talked to him from morning until mid-night about the evils of strong drink and all the brute does is walk out of the house.

And he's cruel. Oh, Mr. Editor. He's so cruel. Junior used his razor to sharpen a lead pencil and the depraved person swore at him—at my son—and threw a shaving brush at him.

Yes, Sir, I've tried everything. My mother offered him $100 to provide evidence for our divorce. He laughed at her—a twisted, cynical sort of laugh—and told her he hated corruption more than anything else in the world. She offered him $200 and he smiled a half-twisted sort of smile and said no previous attempt had been made to corrupt him. Mother offered him $400. He called that a business proposition and took the $400.

But then Mother called him a rascal, a philanderer, and a good-for-nothing. She said I was a fool to have married him. That was too much for me, Mr. Editor. My judgment was impaired. I must either lose face or go back to Kelly. I went back. And let me tell you, Sir, it was not because of the $400. I always was opposed to corruption.

In spite of the fact that so many of us tailors have been forced by circumstances to get rid of our powerful limousines, our yachts, and all that sort of thing, there is no reason why we should not continue to study those observances of polite society which have made the Colony what she is, Heaven help her. This being so, we beg to offer a few problems in the new etiquette: (Q) Mr. and Mrs. B. have gone to the pictures. Nowadays they can afford only the front seats but as soon as the lights go down they duck and crawl back to the more aristocratic back stalls. In the dark, however, Mr. B. has the misfortune to sit down on somebody's hat.

(A) Mr. B. should get back on the floor again and commence to miao. Everybody will take him for the theatre cat. If he is stroked, he should purr, and he may even be offered a saucer of milk, which is not to be sneezed at in these straitened days.

BROKE.

(Q) You have staying with you an unwelcome guest in the shape of a bailiff but when visitors arrive you introduce him as an old college chum who is staying with you. But, as it happens, he has just left your friends under similar circumstances, and they know him well.

(A) Invite the bailiff to make up a four at bridge, solo whist, nap, coddam, or any other game. Bailiffs are likely to play. He is the only person present who is likely to have any money, and you may win it from him if you have any luck.

THE MARCH OF SCIENCE.

A research worker has discovered that sound waves will control bacteria and so arrest the decay of food. The sound waves, can be produced on an ordinary musical instrument. We look forward to the prospect of a Dairy Farm Salesman serenading a sirloin of beef with a saxophone to prolong its life; or to the comrade menacing with a mouth-organ an over-ripe Gorgonzola to prevent it walking out on him. Chilled eggs of all ages would doubtless hum an accompaniment.

CURE FOR PACIFISM.

Years ago we were friendly with a man who suddenly became a ranting pacifist. Argument being useless, we put the matter to the test one day by giving the pacifist a smart box on the ears. To our joy, a fight followed. The ranter now readily admits that primitive instincts are paramount.

"Mamma, make brother pay for his share of the gas, when we drive down to see you."

FEDERAL INDIA

SIR JOHN SIMON ON WHITE PAPER

THE GOAL BEYOND QUESTION

London, Mar. 28. The House of Commons resumed to-day the debate on the Government's motion asking for authority to set up a joint Select Committee of Lords and Commons on constitutional reform in India before Parliament is asked to take a decision.

Sir Robert Horne, who was among the speakers, emphasised the vital importance of the safeguards, as they were giving a system of Parliamentary democracy to 350,000,000 people at a time when many countries were being deprived of Parliamentary democracy and resorting to dictatorships.

He criticised, from this viewpoint, many features of the White Paper.

SIR JOHN SIMON'S VIEW.

Sir John Simon declared it was perfectly clear that the preamble to the Government of India Act, under which the Statutory Commission was appointed, deliberately conceived that Britain was, as a master of policy, pledged to a fair pursuit of the policy presented to the House by the late Mr. Montagu when Secretary for India.

Pace, methods and conditions were open for consideration but the goal was beyond question.

A risk undoubtedly existed in every attempt to raise the conditions of peoples. He wanted to see the prospect of this new development of a greater India much more thoroughly investigated so that there would be an opportunity of the great Indian princes playing a larger part than before.

POINTS OF DIFFERENCE.

Having stated the points on which there might be said to be differences between the Commission's Report and the White Paper, Sir John declared he would feel more difficulty if the Secretary of State were to-day or tomorrow asking the House to vote in favour of the White Paper. But he was not doing that.

The Secretary for India was saying, "We must set up now without further delay, a joint committee in order that that the committee may not wander at large over the field."

SUBJECT TO IMPROVEMENT.

"We, who have worked for many months on the subject, present a connected and articulated scheme in a White Paper which we do not say is to be the Bill that we will submit but which will give everybody's view, which the Government put forward, with every opportunity of its being examined, criticised and improved." Sir John Simon described the burden which lay on the shoulders of the present Parliament as one of the most tremendous events in history.—British Wireless.

Owing to a slight cold, the King was unable to hold the first levee this season, the Prince of Wales then taking his place.—British Wireless.

LORRY OVER ENBANKMENT

MISHAP OCCURS AT STANLEY

Chu Hung, driver of a motor lorry engaged in work at Stanley, has reported to the police there that while reversing his vehicle in a pathway off the Stanley Road, it went over the embankment. Fortunately the fall was only a short distance, and the damage caused to the lorry was not extensive. A man, Tse Ping, received slight injuries as a result of the mishap, and was removed to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment. The accident occurred near the Stanley Police Station.

A second accident was reported from Central district yesterday. Wo Wo-wing stated that when driving a private car along Queen's Road East near the Naval Yard, he knocked down a woman, Mok Siu-sum. She received only slight injuries and after being given medical aid was allowed to go home.

WORK WITHOUT WAGES

APPRENTICE CHARGED WITH THEFT

"I don't see how you can expect your workmen to be honest if you don't pay them wages," said Mr. Schofield in the Central Magistracy this morning, addressing a representative of the Chan Yee firm of building constructors, who appeared as complainant against an apprentice, aged 21 years, who admitted stealing electric fittings from 481, Hennessy Road.

When arrested defendant told the police that he received no wages. He felt very cold and wanted money to buy a hot cup of tea and a meal.

The representative of the firm said apprentices were not paid wages, but received small sums for pocket money.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

A MAN SHOULD NEVER BE ASHAMED TO OWN HE HAS BEEN IN THE WRONG, WHICH IS BUT SAYING, IN OTHER WORDS, THAT HE IS WISER TO-DAY THAN HE WAS YESTERDAY.—Sinif.

According to a Canton report, the Right Rev. R. O. Hall, Bishop of Victoria was the speaker and guest of honour yesterday at the Rotary Club meeting. Bishop Hall usually visits Canton every Wednesday and rather than see the customary Tuesday meeting altered to suit his convenience, made the trip one day earlier.

The fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday afternoon in the board room. Mr. T. Megarry, President, was in the chair, others present being the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson, Vice-President, Dr. G. W. Pope, M.C.E., Mr. Wong Kwong-thin, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. F. C. Hall, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. J. Roe, secretary, and Mr. Ng Mui-kai, assistant secretary. The Board confirmed the resignation of Mr. C. H. Bando and the other business was purely formal.

The Hongkong Branch of the English Association will hold the last meeting of a highly successful session on Tuesday, April 4. The time and place will be, as usual, 5.30 p.m. in the Helena May Institute. His Excellency Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., who takes a keen interest in the Association, will preside. The lecture will be by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, M.C., on "Adventures Among English Books." As Dr. Kotewall is well known for his love of English literature and for his extensive library, it is certain that his treatment of this subject will appeal to all book-buyers.

SEQUEL TO SALE OF CHILD

MAN AND WOMAN FINED

At the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Butters this morning, the S.C.A. represented by Inspector A. H. Elston, brought a prosecution against a shop-keeper named Chun Tam and a widow named Suen Chin, both of Kowloon City, who were charged with taking part in the sale of a male child aged four years.

It was alleged that the woman took the child to the first defendant's shop on Sunday, and a transaction took place, the man paying over $130 for the custody of the child. The S. C. A. received information to this effect and inquiries were immediately instigated, as a result of which the two defendants were charged.

Inspector Elston said a Kai-fong of Kowloon City was in Court to ask his worship for leniency on behalf of the defendants.

It was also stated that the first defendant had a wife and several concubines, but had no male child. His Worship:—Is this case of genuine adoption?

Inspector Elston:—No, your Worship. The woman carried the child around and the first defendant bought it without making any application to the S. C. A. We are very much against these casual sales of children.

In the circumstances, his Worship decided to impose a fine of $50, or one month, on each of the defendants.

BRITISH INTEREST.

London, Mar. 28. Asked in the Commons whether he had made any representation to the German Government regarding the safety of British Jews in Germany, Sir John Simon said: "Although I am unaware of any actual case of arrest or ill-treatment of a Jewish British subject, His Majesty's Ambassador at Berlin, on my instructions, spoke to the German Minister for Foreign Affairs on this question about three weeks ago and I also took the opportunity of mentioning the matter myself last week to the German Ambassador in London. ROBBERS WOUND WOMAN

RECEIVES BULLET IN LEG

The police at Kowloon City are investigating a wounding case, of which the victim is a married woman To Ying-tai, aged 36 years, who is now lying in the Kowloon Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the leg. Her injury is regarded as not serious.

A brief report at Police Headquarters this morning, stated that the woman lived in an unnumbered hut in Cheung Wan, which is situated near Ma Tau Kok. Six men, armed with two revolvers and a dagger, broke into the hut shortly before midnight last night. The woman put up a strong resistance, and one of the men opened fire, the bullet entering her leg. The woman lay helpless for a considerable time, and it was not until 7.45 this morning that a report was lodged at the Kowloon City Police Station of the affair. The intruders, after ransacking the hut, ran away with a quantity of clothing. They were seen to board a boat and to row in the direction of Quarry Bay.

SCHOOL CLOCK STOLEN

TWO MEN CHARGED AT KOWLOON

A clock lost almost a year ago formed the subject of a charge against Yick Sun and Yick Sim-man, father and son respectively, who were brought before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on an allegation of unlawfully receiving the clock knowing it to have been stolen.

Detective Sergeant Goodwin said the complainant was Ng Wop-ing, the headmistress of a Chinese school at No. 209, Cheungskwan Road. On 30th. April, 1932, the school closed at 1 p.m. and the door was locked up. At about 3 p.m. on the same day, an amah returned to the premises and found the door open. The clock was missing.

The complainant made a report to the police, but no trace of the clock could be found until two days ago, when the police executed a search warrant on defendant's premises. The clock was found hanging on the wall opposite the second defendant's cubicle.

The complainant related the loss of the clock and the report subsequently made to the police. Cross-examined by Mr. Hin-shing Lo, who represented both defendants, complainant admitted

SUBSTITUTE AMAH'S THEFT

A Chinese amah was bound over by Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning, when she pleaded guilty to the theft of a gold engagement ring, the property of her mistress. Defendant was employed as a substitute and worked for only three hours. Her mistress, Miss Remedios, did not press the charge.

that she could not swear that the clock found on defendants' premises was the one she had lost, but it was of the same kind. She further stated that she had seen the first defendant before the loss of the clock, he having been up to her school, she alleged, for the purpose of getting a syllabus of the school curriculum.

At this juncture, Mr. Lo submitted that his clients were entitled to an acquittal on the evidence before the Court. Complainant herself admitted that she could not swear that the clock was hers.

His Worship, however, decided that what complainant had stated in the witness box was as much as she could say, consistent with her honesty.

The case was adjourned until April 6.

SHANGHAI FOOTBALL SEASON ENDS

ARGYLLS ENJOY SUCCESSES

FIRST DIVISION CHAMPIONSHIP WON BY TUNG HWA

Except for one First Division match, which will not affect the standings, the Shanghai Soccer league has been concluded. The official tables, show distinctly meritorious performances by the leaders in all the divisions, and absolutely hopeless records by the back-markers. Tung Hwa are the champions of the league, with only three points dropped in eighteen matches, and being debited with only one defeat. Shanghai's one-time premier clubs are down amongst the lowliest, the Football Club having only managed to win four games and draw two, whilst the Rees won only six games.

The Argyle & Sutherland Highlanders reserves have gone through a "A" section of the Second Division with a clean record of victories, and have had only eight goals scored against them, whilst making 53 for themselves. The once-powerful St. Xavier's team, who could hold their own against the best in Shanghai, have certainly fallen on evil days, for they are last but one in this section, with only a single victory to their credit. The "B" section is headed by the East Lancashire Regt., with eight wins, one draw, and one defeat, and almost out of sight is the Football Club 2nd, with four wins out of ten matches.

The Club Lusitano, who also at one time could boast a very strong team, have the satisfaction of heading the odds-and-ends of the Third Division in eleven games. The year is brought up by Bramoto, who have gone through the season with the lean record of a single point, even with such minor opposition as is afforded in this section. It should be a cause for satisfaction that the newly-organised Chinese Police, in their first season of competition football, won four of their games and drew one out of eleven played, suggesting that, with a little more coaching by the foreign branch, they may yet become a power amongst the juniors.

SHANGHAI SOCCER
RULES

REVISION NEEDED

Experience during the present season has shown that the existing Laws and Rules of the Shanghai Football Association, which were adopted, mainly, in 1927, are in need of revision in certain aspects, and for this purpose a special Revision Sub-Committee, consisting of Messrs. P. S. Bridges, G. F. Forshaw, and H. F. Marshall, with C. W. Hampson as secretary, has been appointed to go thoroughly into the matter and to submit to the Association, not later than the beginning of August, such recommendations as may be considered necessary to bring the laws, etc., into line with present requirements. It is likely that, as a result, certain proposals will be submitted to the next annual general meeting of the Association, which will take place in September.

INVALID'S RECOVERY

Philadelphia, Mar. 21. "Bill" Carr, the famous athlete, will never be able to run in big events again, so the doctors have definitely announced. Carr was badly injured in an automobile accident last Saturday. He was standing on the running board of a car when it crashed into another vehicle and he was hurled into the street. He fractured both ankles and suffered a severe injury to the pelvis.

GERMANY PREPARES FOR OLYMPIAD
AMBITIOUS PROGRAMME FOR GREAT INTERNATIONAL
GATHERING IN 1936

Berlin is getting ready for the eleventh Olympiad which is to be held in the German Capital in August, 1936. Soon after the return of the German Olympic Committee from Los Angeles, the first preparations started and the Olympic meet in Berlin will, it is safe to say, be one of the greatest shows ever held here.

The Chairman of the German Olympic Committee, Dr. Lewald, a well-known figure in the sporting life of Germany, had the courtesy to furnish some details of the arrangements now under way to a representative of the Transoceanic service. As regards the holding of the winter games, the place of contest is to be decided upon in June this year during the session of the International Olympic Committee in Vienna. Germany agrees in principle to have these games staged in this country and it may be said that the decision regarding the place of contest will in a large measure depend upon Germany's desires. In all probability the choice will fall on Garmisch-Partenkirchen, the famous health resort in Bavaria, which is an ideal place in every respect. It boasts of the best and most modern sporting grounds, it is close to Munich, so participants, active as well as passive, need not forego the pleasure of attending the numerous entertainments which the Bavarian capital provides.

Munich, the city of art and artists, with her galleries, her splendid "German Museum," her active theatrical and concert life, her special festive entertainments, is sure to cast a magic spell on everybody.

Grounds excellent. Ground conditions at Garmisch-Partenkirchen are excellent. The few hockey competitions can be de-

SOCCER
INTERPORTSHANGHAI MAY GO TO TIENTSINEASTER MATCH PROBABLE

The Shanghai Football Association is making strenuous efforts to send an Interport team to Tientsin at Easter. It will be remembered that Tientsin have visited Shanghai three times during the last years and that, for various reasons, the S.F.A. has found it impracticable to return the visit.

Now that all the Association's competitions for the season are practically finished, however, it is felt that there is an excellent chance of the long-standing invitation from the Tientsin F.A. being accepted, and endeavours are being made to send a representative team, which would leave Shanghai by train on or about April 12 and return, on or about April 18. This would allow of the team playing two matches in Tientsin. Further particulars will be issued as soon as it is known whether there are sufficient acceptances to the preliminary invitation which has been sent by the Association to local Clubs.

By "Bully Off"

The Radio completed their fixtures in the Mamak tournament yesterday when they defeated the 20th. Battery on their own ground at Caroline Hill by two goals to one. The game was evenly contested throughout and at the interval honours were easy, each side finding the net once. Scorers for the Radio were Surjin Singh and Attar Singh.

ENGLISH DOG RACE

About 20 million people paid for admittance to greyhound race courses in England last year, according to statistics issued by the National Greyhound Racing Society.

There are 18,134 owners of greyhounds registered with the National Greyhound Racing company and 30,000 greyhounds are on the register.

AMERICAN GOLFING
SUPERIORITYBritish Champion Is Amazed

In the opinion of John de Forest, the British amateur golf champion, the golfing world is going to be stirred by the doings of the Americans this year in the international competitions between Britain and the U.S. six months' tour of America, competing in the leading tournaments against the cream of American professionals and amateurs has convinced De Forest that the Americans are definitely ahead of us in the game.

"The progress made by professionals and amateurs—especially the former—is astonishing," said De Forest. "There are young men playing a standard of golf that rivals the great Sarazen. During my tour I was amazed by the performances of some of these youngsters. Just imagine! In the Los Angeles championship one had to return a score of 150 or better to get among the first fifty."

"Two of the outstanding professionals in America to-day are Craig Wood and Olin Dutra. Wood won three big tournaments in succession, and his golf, I can assure you, was masterly. "Of course, we need not be discouraged. We have an excellent chance in the Ryder Cup match, for it must be remembered we will have the advantage of playing at home, and that counts a great deal."

The strong interest which nations abroad show in the Olympic games has naturally met with a vivid response in this country. The Olympic Committee will be enlarged, and will include industrialists, businessmen, scientists, representatives of art and members of the municipal authorities. The Mayor of Berlin, Herr Sahm, has been appointed vice-president of the Olympic Committee.

For the holding of the summer games the existing "Deutsch Stadion" will be thoroughly reconstructed and enlarged so as to accommodate 85,000 spectators. The location of the Stadion surrounded by woods, with wide access roads, makes it an ideal place for the summer games.

Nothing has yet been decided upon as regards the accommodation for the competitors. But there is plenty of time left. The erection of an "Olympic Town" like that in Los Angeles may be seen from the fact

The Radio are now in a strong position to claim the championship for they hold an advantage of one point over the 1st H.K.S. Battery even if the latter win their remaining two games, while their only other challengers the Incoogs have six games in hand and are ten points behind. "They have three days in which to complete these six matches which, unless some concession is made them by the committee in view of the inclement weather of the last two or three days, is almost impossible."

Better stamina enabled the Wishart to take two points from the University when the teams met in the Mamak tournament yesterday at King's Park. The exchanges on the whole were fairly even but the score, a one goal win for the sailors was a fair indication of the run of play.

The "Varsity" fielded only ten men but, in the first half held their own and the teams changed over with no score recorded. In the second half the navy men pressed home their advantage and scored through A.B. Burrell.

The Jai Alai gained an overwhelming defeat over the Y.M.C.A. at King's Park yesterday when a free scoring game resulted in a win for the Indians by 9 goals to four. Both clubs fielded strong combinations. D. McLellan making a welcome return to the Y.M.C.A. side after a long absence, while G.P. Lammett was also included. The soldiers were the superior side and deserved their win.

At the interval they led by five goals to one. They netted four more points in the second half while the "Y" replied with goals by G. Fowler (2) and J. Brown. G.P. Lammett netted their only goal in the first half.

CANDIDATES FOR
HONOURSLADIES SHOW GOOD
HOCKEY FORM

By "Sticks")

By her display on the D.G.A. ground yesterday afternoon in the first trial match between Whites and Colours, P. E. Gittins, of St. Andrew's Club, who is a regular left wing, is the probable candidate for the position of right wing in the Rest eleven to meet the Hongkong Ladies, Champions of the Caer Clark Cup on April 8.

While not playing brilliantly, she showed adaptability to a strange position. At present there is a dearth of right wing players among the Kowloon ladies' teams, and the selectors have been confronted with this problem.

The game ended in a draw of two goals all, M. Woolley scoring both goals for the Whites while C. Silver and M. Remedios were the Colours' goal scorers. A second trial game will be staged on the C.B.A. ground King's Park, to-morrow afternoon.

Absentees from yesterday's game were J. Bryson (St. Andrew's), M. Alves (Recreio), G. White (St. Andrew's) and E. M. Beavis (C.B.A.). M. L. W. Bryson, of the Saints, who was shifted to the centre-half position in the absence of M. Alves, played a dashing game for the Colours. E. Xavier (Recreio) rendered good support at right half, holding her team mate, M. Remedios, well in check. E. S. Woolley (C.B.A.) partner M. Remedios on the left flank, and she was not altogether to blame for not passing the ball to her left wing as she was also playing in a strange position. She plays at left wing for her team. M. Woolley, at centre-forward for the Whites, played a good leader's game and was responsible for some clever stick work. O. Brown, the speedy Y.M. left wing, showed tremendous bursts of speed but on occasions was inclined to take the ball too far and her final efforts were lost.

Credit must also go to S. Dalziel, of the "Y," who deputised for E. Beavis at centre-half in the Colours' side. In M. Woolley she had a dangerous forward to mark and she tackled admirably. E. Almada, who is likely to fill the goal position in the Rest eleven, did not have much work to do, on the whole. P. Whitley, of the C.B.A., deputising for G. White, at left back, for the Colours, played a steady game.

A Fowler, the "Y" skipper, playing at right back for the Whites, was the hardest hitter of the defenders, and was inclined to "stick" frequently although the infringement escaped the referee's notice on many occasions. Her weakness is clearing to the centre of the field instead of hitting the ball to her wings, as C. Osmond, of the Recreio, does.

CHINESE VIEW ON DISARMAMENT

DR. KOO CRITICISES RESERVATION

Geneva, Mar. 27.
Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister to France and one of the Chinese delegates at Geneva, speaking before the General Disarmament Commission today, generally supported the British Disarmament Plan, but criticised certain points. He pointed out that China, on account of her scrupulous respect for treaties, had undergone during the past 18 months, and was still undergoing, with increasing severity, an aggression which was generally and judicially recognised as such by the world. Dr. Koo felt, therefore the need for reinforcing the League Covenant in order to ensure a speedier and more effective system of collective responsibility for the prevention of aggression.

Air Bombing.

Dr. Koo took special exception to the British suggestion regarding the reservation of the air bombardment for police purposes in outlying districts. He said aerial bombing had now a terrible meaning for the Chinese people. Its form of warfare was extremely efficacious against national defence and was most threatening for civilian populations. The phrase "police measures" had become an ominous expression for the Chinese people.

Dr. Koo added that China had never had any army, navy or air force answering requirements of special circumstances, but the present experience was a lesson. She was faced with the pressing need of a coastal defence and air force. Her inadequate system of defence had induced aggression. Consequently, China was compelled to make reservations regarding the basis for calculating her armaments.

Dr. Koo particularly objected to the allocation of only 100 aeroplanes to China in the British draft plan.—Reuter.

DEBT PARLEY.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR AND U.S. SECRETARY

Washington, Mar. 28.
"We all kept our shirts on, anyway."
This was all that the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, would say to pressmen to-day about his further conversation with Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and their respective financial advisers. The conference took place to-day regarding the world economic conference and war debts. Mr. Hull was more communicative and stated they had continued their preliminary tentative discussion on the world economic situation. He expected to continue the talks which were extremely valuable in clarifying the views of the officials of the two countries.—Reuter's Special.

AN ACT OF WAR

COLOMBIANS ATTACK GUEPI

Lima, Peru, Mar. 28.
What is regarded here as the first act of war by Colombia against Peru occurred when Colombian troops, supported by gunboats and aeroplanes, attacked the Peruvian possession of Guepi on the Putumayo River, not previously considered to be within the disputed territory.

The Peru-Colombia dispute, which is being pushed ahead without reference to the League of Nations, concerns the possession of Leticia. It is reported that the Peruvians have mined the river Amazon in the vicinity of Leticia, making it almost impossible for the Colombian gunboats to operate there.—Reuter's Special.

A CHILDREN'S DAY.

TO BE MADE ANNUAL EVENT IN HONGKONG

A group of local doctors and business men, in response to an ideal expressed, are making preparations to inaugurate a movement for setting aside April 4 every year as a Children's Day in the Chinese community. The object is to fall in line with the National Child Welfare Association of Shanghai, which in observing the Day for the first time last year, expressly urged the whole of China to co-operate. Just as in England and the United States, where a Children's Day is observed regularly every year, so in China this annual festival will be permanently placed on the calendar.

As Ching Ming and Easter fall during the first two weeks in April this year, many may be away for their vacation, so the committee responsible for organizing the Children's Day in Hongkong have considered it expedient to observe the occasion on April 19, 20, 21 and 22.

During these four days, there will be an exhibition of toys, children's food, clothing, toilet articles etc. at the Hop Yat Church, Caine Road. In addition, there will be a health contest consisting of a physical examination daily by medical practitioners during the first three days.

Those desiring their children (age-limit 3 to 12) to participate may secure registration forms from either the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Bridges Street, or from the South China Athletic Association, China Building. Registration will commence on April 1 and close on April 12.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall will formally open the Children's Health

hurry to inquire secretly of Henri what was the price of her wrap or frock, whether it could be duplicated.

The prospect alarmed Sheila. It was welcome news, indeed, that she was to earn $50 a week but when Gordon explained what would be expected of her she doubted her ability.

"Just be yourself," Gordon told her. "Slip into this gown and hat and walk around or sit just as the others do. Now and then pretend to inquire about a purchase."

"But I don't know" anything about modelling!" the girl protested.

"Neither do our clients. They'll think you are one of themselves."

In another five minutes Sheila was dressed and ready. "You'll be all right. It's easy," the red-haired girl reassured her.

Sheila stepped again into the soft glow of the outer salon. She hesitated, then moved on. As she did so her eyes fell on a familiar figure directly across the room.

The committee is composed of Mr. Ngan Shing-kwan, Drs. Arthur Woo, T. C. Yip, F. I. Tseung, H. C. Chen and K. F. Koo, Mr. Lam Chi-fung of the Ka Wah Bank, Mr. James Chon, and others.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL PLAYS

"THE MINNESOTA SHIFT"

SOME credit Dr. Harry Williams, former coach of the University of Minnesota, with the development of shift plays. His first shift, now known as the "Minnesota shift," was produced in 1909, and had a lot of opposing teams guessing.

It is worked this way: The six forwards line up a few yards back of center, with the backs in formation behind them. At the signal, the line-backer "hips" into line, followed by the backs, who take up the position before the play. This position can be either to right or left of center, in order to outflank the opposing defense.

Numerous plays can be worked from this shift, from line backs and end runs, to passes and trick reverses.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

James Dunn looked up from a mass of figures one day, and leaning back in a swivel chair, idly pondered the futility of slaving in his father's stock brokerage office. Heritage was all right, but letting parents plan a career was all wrong. Now if he were only an actor! The embryonic thought soon blossomed forth into a full grown idea. James Dunn immediately severed a three years' business connexion with his father and made a bee-line for the Paramount Long Island studio where he became a motion picture extra. Later, he made steady progress. James Dunn's motion picture experience before signing with the Fox Film Corporation was confined to several shorts made at the New York studios of Warner Brothers and Paramount. The proudest moment of his life was when John Barrymore introduced him on a Hollywood golf course, telling Dunn his performance in "Bad Girl" was the finest he had ever seen. It was not until his recent personal appearance tour of eastern states that he realized the full extent of his popularity, gained from such pictures as "Bad Girl", "Sob Sister", "Over the Hill", "Panic Train", and now "Society Girl" coming on Thursday next to the King's Theatre.

"Fast Life" As a distinct departure from enervating "drawing room drama," the lightning fast motorboat thriller, "Fast Life," is being offered from tomorrow at the Queen's Theatre with an exceptionally strong cast headed by William Haines and Madge Evans. Scenes of the boat races filmed at Catalina Island and in the Los Angeles Harbour show high-powered craft pounding over the waves at close to 100 miles per hour. Cameras were mounted on speedboats to follow the racers, which gives the spectator the same effect as though he were actually riding in the race. The picture is based on E.J. Rath's novel, "Let's Go," dealing with the adventures of two motorboat mechanics who are determined to enter their boat in international competition. The various complications in which they become involved are worked out through a blend of comedy and drama that is packed with sure-fire entertainment.

"Tess of the Storm Country" With the coming of "Tess of the Storm Country" to the King's Theatre next Sunday, the army of Gayne-Farrell fans will see their favourite in what is said to be the most exciting and dramatic offering they have yet made and a picture very different from any of their previous vehicles. The story deals with the hectic adventures of a sea-captain's daughter who comes to live ashore for the first time in her life. With its opening sequences aboard the Captain's schooner and the picturesque settings of the shore scenes, the production adds a scenic realism to its swift-moving story. Miss Gayne's work as the fiery and independent fisher-girl and Farrell's performance as the carefree youngster who encounters love for the first time, are reported to rank among the stars' finest portrayals.

"Prosperity" Reproducing an old-time general merchandise store was one of the problems confronted by Sam Wood in directing "Prosperity," the new Marie Dressler-Polly Moran comedy now playing at the Queen's Theatre. This type of store, long out of existence, sold everything from butter to plough shares. "Prosperity" is a comedy-drama of a small town, with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran as battling mothers-in-law, and Anita Page and Norman Foster as their married children. Jacques Lyn, Jerry Tucker, Charles Gibby, Franch Darion and Henry Armetta have important roles.

"Horse Feathers" Groucho Marx has decided to buy an eskimo and make his own ice. The bemused, bespectacled member of the Four Marx Brothers team reached the decision during the filming of "Horse Feathers," latest of the insane comedies starring him and his three brothers, Chico, Harpo, and Zeppo now on display at the King's Theatre. Chico, dialect punster of the quartette, is cast as a bodegger-ice-man. He takes cakes of ice, bores holes in them, and then conceals bottles of rye, gin and Scotch in the holes. Chico with the Harpo, as the town dog-catcher in "Horse Feathers" help Groucho, a college president, to get his son Zeppo out of school after he has spent 12 years there as a freshman.

"Hell's Highway" The heart-hunger of convicts, deprived year in and year out of the sight of a woman is revealed in a scene from "Hell's Highway," Richard Dix's current RKO-Radio starring vehicle, now playing at the Central Theatre. A group is seen building a new road. An automobile lurches up. Among the occupants is a girl of eighteen. The convicts risk the brutal punishments usually meted out to those who stop working, to crowd close and obtain one look at the pretty creature in the car. "Hell's Highway," a story calculated to touch the heart, as have few photo plays of the last year, shows, in addition, conditions as they exist in American prisons to-day. Rowland Brown directed.

N. ZEALAND FLOOD.

HEAVY DAMAGE AT TAUMARUNUI

Auckland, Mar. 28.

The flood damage around Taumarunui will amount to thousands of pounds, while many weeks of labour by hundreds of men will be required to restore road and bridges throughout the area, according to reports received here to-day. Thirty chains of line on the Stratford railway, it is stated, have been obliterated, and the task of restoring the line will take a month.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Have you ever noticed the great number of people playing contract who continually complain of the poor cards that they hold?

Of course the continued holding of poor cards is discouraging, but the law of averages states that we all hold an equal number of high cards in time. However, I have seen a number of people get into great deal of trouble when dealt too many high cards.

There is no question but that plenty of high cards, combined with good bidding, and good playing, are truly a winning combination. A good thing, to remember when you are dealt a hand of high cards is that it is possible that partner may not have an entry card in his hand.

For instance, in the accompanying hand South has a total of six and one-half quick tricks. He has a six-card suit, 150 aces. Without any hesitation he opened with a bid of two hearts.

♠ 8-4	♥ 9-8-6	♦ 6-5-2	♣ 10-9-6
♠ 10-7-5	♥ 10-7-5	♦ 10-7-5	♣ 10-7-5
♠ 9-8-6	♥ 9-8-6	♦ 9-8-6	♣ 9-8-6
♠ 8-7-6	♥ 8-7-6	♦ 8-7-6	♣ 8-7-6
♠ 7-6-5	♥ 7-6-5	♦ 7-6-5	♣ 7-6-5
♠ 6-5-4	♥ 6-5-4	♦ 6-5-4	♣ 6-5-4
♠ 5-4-3	♥ 5-4-3	♦ 5-4-3	♣ 5-4-3
♠ 4-3-2	♥ 4-3-2	♦ 4-3-2	♣ 4-3-2
♠ 3-2-1	♥ 3-2-1	♦ 3-2-1	♣ 3-2-1
♠ 2-1-0	♥ 2-1-0	♦ 2-1-0	♣ 2-1-0

North promptly replied with two no trump. South re-bid his hearts to show partner a solid heart suit of at least five cards.

Remember that after a forcing bid both partners are required to keep the bidding open until game is reached. North decided that as long as he was forced to bid until game is reached he would support his partner's hearts to "four," and was almost dumfounded when his partner immediately bid six hearts.

While the bidding was indeed over-optimistic, the play was unusually interesting.

The Play

West's opening lead was the jack of spades, which the declarer won with the ace. He then led the ace of hearts, on which West's queen dropped.

The declarer still had the king and jack of hearts left with which to pick up East's trump. Would you do this, if you were the declarer? If so, you would be unable to make your contract of six hearts.

If South continued with the hearts he would be forced to lose a club and a diamond. South must create an entry in dummy for two reasons; first, to discard his losing diamond on the good spade, and second to take the club finesse.

He played his king of spades, setting up dummy's queen. He then led a small heart, deliberately losing a heart trick.

You can see that East was helpless. If he refused to win the heart trick, the declarer would make a grand slam.

All that he could do was to play his ten of hearts, and when he returned the seven of diamonds, the declarer went right up with the ace and then led another heart, which was won in dummy with the nine.

On the queen of spades from dummy declarer discarded his losing four of diamonds. He then led the jack of clubs and as East held the king the contract of six hearts was made.

You will often find that you must deliberately give up one trick in order to win two or three tricks later on.

HEAVILY

LABOUR RETAINS THE SEAT

London, Mar. 28. The bye-election in the East Rhondda division, caused by the death of Lieut.-Col. D. Watts-Morgan, has resulted in Labour retaining the seat.

The Labour nominee was opposed by a Liberal and a Communist, the polling resulting as follows:

Mr. Mainwaring (Lab.) 14,127
Mr. A. Horner (Comm.) 11,228
Mr. Thomas (Lib.) 7,851

Labour maj. 2,899.

At the last General Election, Lieut.-Col. Watts-Morgan fought a straight fight with Mr. Horner, the Communist candidate, and polled 22,086, against his opponent's 10,359—a majority of 11,727. This is the third occasion on which Mr. Horner has unsuccessfully contested the seat.—Reuter.

BATSMAN

L.C.H. PALAIRET

London, Mar. 28. The death has occurred suddenly at the age of 63 of L. C. H. Palaret, the famous Somerset cricketer who played for England against Australia 30 years ago.

His brother is one of the joint managers of the England team at present in New Zealand.

L. C. H. Palaret was educated at Repton and Oxford and played both for his college and University cricket teams. Subsequently he became a regular playing member of the Somerset county team.

In 1902 he played for England against Australia at Manchester and the Oval, both matches having exciting finishes. At Manchester Australia won by three runs and at the Oval England scored a great victory by one wicket.

FIRST WICKET RECORDS.

During his long career with Somerset, Palaret established more than one record. He was a brilliant batsman and in 1896 he scored 292 for Somerset against Hampshire at Southampton, whilst four years before he was concerned in a record first wicket partnership with H. T. Hewitt, the two scoring 346 before separation. This total was made against Yorkshire at Taunton.

Taunton was a favourite hunting ground for this brilliant batsman and in 1901 he and A. E. Lewis put together 268 for the first wicket for Somerset against Sussex.—British Wireless.

London, March 28. The Conference adjourned until 25th April when it will examine the convention chapter by chapter and article by article.

Sir John Simon added: "This British initiative, which involves the pursuit of new method—the placing before the conference of a comprehensive scheme in convention form so that each question may be studied in relation to the other, necessary questions—has been received with general satisfaction as giving the best prospect for reaching an agreed solution."—British Wireless.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Two pairs of chic notes sing a Spring style duet.

First, the two new types of kid footgear that will go with printed frocks. (Left) Navy blue kid pumps, of classic cut, yet timely styled with perforations and underlay of white kid, sound the lightness and beauty of Spring.
(Right) Side-closings on new black kid oxfords illustrate how smartness on the side is what all well-dressed women will demand.

Second, new printed silks for frocks have two favourite ways of showing their designs on chic.
(Left) The formalized print which may be a flower or bunch of flowers, a fern, a spray of plumes or any other design, is used stylized and not just as a quaint scattered pattern. (Right) Plaids are sweeping the fashion world,
and this maize, lemon, orange,

and black plaid is new and charming.
Both printed frocks have the approved above-the-elbow sleeves, both have kick pleats in their skirts to give them fullness. The formalized print on the left has the new square neckline and two huge buttons marking the corners.
The other has the huge white organdie bow that many of the dresses show as a first sign of crisp spring.

"AMUSING" DRESS.

Paris.—After a long spell of wet, warm weather the real winter has come, and women have returned behind furs and warm woolen dresses.

Very charming they look in bright-red frocks under black Persian lamb coats; in green under mink; in brown with astrakhan to match; in grey with black and grey astrakhan; and all these fur combinations less expensively done in pony, caracul, rabbit.

The hats give a note of gaiety in form, perched high on the head and dipping to the brow, with a little veil to keep them and the waved hair beneath in place.

Silk stockings are worn with thin wool ones under them, and fine woollen stockings are worn with tailor-mades. It is comfortable and smart to wear warm jerseys and hand-knitted jumpers and cardigans, with woollen stockings and low-heeled shoes. With reluctance do women leave these cosy clothes for the more formal afternoon dresses, and long fur coats. It is greatly to the credit of the leaders of fashion that they prefer to be comfortably and suitably dressed rather than to look elegant and be cold.

With bright colours and soft textures, so many charming winter ensembles are combined which have all the virtues of comfort and all the charm of youthful gaiety.

Fur wraps, long and short, are worn in the evening and when a velvet or satin wrap is worn under the long fur coat it is of three-quarter length, the new length, the one which will go on in the spring. Bright colours are also worn in the evening, but black is always a favourite in Paris. Charming frocks in dull satin and crepe have varnished satin at the neck and waist, a fashion started by Molyneux.

Black net dresses are also worn and there are indications that there may be a change in the place of the fullness, or to be exact the fullness may begin at the sides.

Leather Jewellery

The new jewellery is made of leather. It is meant for morning wear and goes well with sports clothes. A belt and necklace, a bracelet, in leather with a touch of metal to fasten it, to brighten it, plaited, twisted, plain round, plain flat, there are many patterns in leather jewellery and many colours.

Fashion's Wheel

Once upon a time women were described as "dainty," "elegant," "fashionable," "smart." All these adjectives are out of date, the right thing to look is "amusing."
"What an amusing little frock, hat, bag, dress" is the phrase you hear, and it means that you have achieved something pleasing, refreshing, bright. Why not?

OIL STATES CONFER. RESTRICTION OF OUTPUT TO BE DISCUSSED

Washington, Mar. 28.
Representatives of 18 oil producing States in America are conferring here as a means of strengthening oil prices and considering the Secretary of the Interior's proposal to reduce the U. S. output of crude oil to two million barrels daily.

While the major companies appear to favour very strict control, the smaller independent companies are likely to oppose it unless assured of an adequate oil price.—Reu-

CONFERENCE OF STEEL HELMET TROOPS

Brunswick, Mar. 28.

The town was kept awake last night by blazing lights and storm-troopers marching before the building where the Steel Helmet troops, Reichsbanners and Communists were imprisoned after the raid. The local Steel Helmet leader was arrested in his bed this morning.

Although the effect of the Brunswick split in the Steel Helmet and Nazi relations has not yet been determined, Herr Seldte, Commander of the Steel Helmets, declares that since Hitler's avowal that he wanted to win over the whole people, great number of ex-Reichsbanners have been trying to join patriotic societies, but the Steel Helmets have restricted their recruitment everywhere. He is calling a conference of Steel Helmet organisations in Berlin on Saturday to discuss the question of their admission.—Reuter's Special.

WAR DEBTS

Although the Roosevelt Administration has not yet reached any definite decision in regard to the war debt problem, there seems every reason, after reading between the lines of recent pronouncements, that a scaling down might be agreed to, provided the United States is given a quid pro quo in the form of increased facilities for trade with the debtor nations. In the case of Britain, in particular, a feeling undoubtedly does exist in America that inasmuch as she got the worst bargain of all in her funding agreement, a reduction could with justice be made. The tariff issue arises here, and it remains to be seen whether Britain is prepared to open the doors wider for American imports. This raises a nice point, since it has been claimed by the British Government that the British tariffs were introduced chiefly as a bargaining lever, in order to secure better terms by inducing a mutual lowering of barriers. The question, therefore, is whether Britain would be willing to modify her tariffs in favour of the United States, merely for the purpose of securing a revision of the debt agreement, whilst at the same time America's tariffs remain unaltered. This is the problem, also, which will face America's other debtors, since it seems clear that it is on this basis that revision is likely to be considered. The next instalments of the debt are due on June 15th, and it appears that if agreement to pay cannot be secured, a moratorium may be granted until such time as accord is reached. The negotiations were to have started before now, but the domestic banking and other emergency questions have been a factor in the delay. In the case of Britain, the ground has been somewhat prepared by the visit to England of the British Ambassador to Washington and his conferences with the U.S. Secretary of State since his return. In the main, the Roosevelt Administration appears likely to follow the lines foreshadowed by Mr. Hoover, making modifications contingent on securing trade concessions. The British instalment, due in June, totals $375,950,000. But it has already been made plain by the British Government that there is no intention of continuing payments on the old basis. In the case of France, she failed to pay the $319,261,432 due last December, but it is believed that the Chamber of Deputies may shortly vote on a proposal to tender the payment, despite the delay, and thus open up the way to new negotiations.

The "Third Colonial System"

Twenty years ago, what the government of a great power chose to do in its own colonies was assumed to be nobody's business but its own. To realize how times have changed one has only to glance over the latest report of the Permanent Mandates Commission to the Council of the League of Nations. The Japanese Government was asked to say plainly whether it was establishing a naval base in the islands of the Pacific, and the French Government was reminded that the time was approaching when not only part of Syria, but all of it, might be expected to make good use of its promise of independence. The mandates system has already, only fourteen years after its institution, passed beyond the experimental stage. Under this system, the Kingdom of Irak has completed its apprenticeship and become a master state in the worshipful company of nations. Placed in its proper historical perspective, the mandates regime now stands revealed as a new era in colonial affairs, following after two distinct epochs in the past. The first of these has been called the "old colonial system." Then a colony was maintained solely in the interest and profit of the mother country—and the mother country frequently assumed a very stepmotherly attitude. After this system had in some degree brought about its own undoing, as evidenced by the successful revolt of the American colonies, a new era had its beginnings in the British Empire through the granting of self-government to the principal overseas dominions. The "new colonial system" introduced elements of freedom and consent into the colonial relationship to such a degree that the regime was recognized both in Britain and overseas to be a vast improvement over its predecessor. To-day a new generation of candidates is marching up the aisle to receive degrees in the university of statehood. There has been a comparatively sheltered career. The kindly consideration which they have received, and the concern with which their discipline has been tempered, will no doubt be reflected in their careers as independent states. The world's concept of what colonial administration should be has been leavened by their example.

Tariff Walls

Authoritative hints of the possibility of American tariff adjustments to enable war debts to be paid have raised hopes in many quarters outside as well as inside the United States that the upward trend of duties to which the world has been subjected will soon be arrested. According to the League of Nations World Economic Survey for 1931-32, the upward movement of the tariffs of the last three years "was undoubtedly accentuated both by the alarm and resentment felt in many countries as the discussion of the new Hawley-Smoot tariff dragged on in the United States Congress from May, 1923, to June, 1930, and by the real effects of that tariff when it went into operation." If this diagnosis be correct, any movement in a downward direction started by the United States should similarly spread across the world. The hope that President-Elect Roosevelt will reverse the tariff flow is therefore buoying up a great company of business men whose trade tide has been running out while that of tariffs has been running in. In the circumstances, it is important to see where heat to start damming the tariff tide. It would be unreasonable to expect it to get flowing at full speed in the opposite direction all at once. A useful step would be to lower the duties on goods which are still being imported in spite of the height of the tariff wall. The United States, for instance, is still buying tweeds and serges from Great Britain in spite of a tariff of 50 cents a pound plus 50 per cent. of the value. Similarly, American machine tools are successfully negotiating the British tariff of 20 per cent. If the rates of duty on these articles went down, the amount of business might confidently be expected to go up.

A WOMAN DYNAMO

By R. J. CRUIKSHANK

The new mistress of the White House has been called a dynamo with a smile. She sums up in herself all the aspirations of the most advanced feminists in the United States.

This younger generation considers that the old problem "Husband versus Career" has lost all reality.

It believes that real freedom for women consists of a combination of personal interests with a happy marriage, a devotion to public service with the rearing of a brood of healthy children.

It is because Mrs. Roosevelt has been able to achieve all these things in such a marked degree that she is the idol of the progressive women of the country. In fact, the mistress of the White House, the "First Lady of the Land," as she is called in Washington society, may be fairly described as the very newest "New Woman."

"Every woman," she says, "has a right to lead her individual life." It is a duty she owes to her husband and children as well as herself. Two days each week, no matter where she may be, Mrs. Roosevelt travels to New York to teach history and the English classics to the children of the Todhunter School. During her arduous years as the Governor's wife at Albany she never once failed the Todhunter School. She also runs the Val Kill furniture shop, which brings her a small income and provides employment for a number of people.

During recent months she has raised a great deal of money for her charities by a series of radio talks given under commercial sponsorship. She is in great demand as an after-dinner speaker, she sometimes fills speaking engagements for her husband, she edits a monthly magazine, she makes it a point of pride never to ignore an appeal for help, and she is a passionate bookworm.

One of her countless useful activities during the past five years was taking a class of young students into the New York State Legislature to show them exactly how the people's laws are made. Her time is budgeted to the last minute. She writes on trains, reads in bed, knits while listening to speeches. She has never known a day's illness, and she has brought up five children remarkable for their good looks and splendid physique. Her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, is one of the prettiest girls in New York, and her mother's inseparable companion.

Mrs. Roosevelt is an extremely hospitable woman, and loves entertaining for her husband. Their dinners at Albany and Hyde Park are famous for their friendly atmosphere. The Roosevelts are one of those families that think and act as one, a family that religiously honours all its domestic festivals.

My Partner and Myself

At the same time, no public man in the United States gets more valuable help from his wife than the new President. Mrs. Roosevelt, indeed, proposes to extend the responsibilities of the President's wife. She said recently, "From my previous life in Washington, I know how difficult it is for a man once he gets there to keep in touch with public opinion. That is where I believe I can help, since my husband's mail is so tremendous he cannot possibly look at it all. I think that my correspondence is the avenue through which we can keep in touch with the public, and that it will give us a real picture of the life of the country. So I hope that people will write to me in Washington."

This is the first time that the wife of a President has used the plural "we," and it suggests that.

Mrs. Roosevelt is looking at the Presidency as a partnership venture. The average mistress of the White House is as quiet as a mouse, and is not expected to do anything more dynamic than offer an oyster patte to the third secretary of the Lithuanian Legation. Mrs. Roosevelt intends to give reality to the title of the First Lady of the Land.

Freedom For Children

Her views are those of a woman whom wide experience of human beings has made liberal and tolerant. She is devoted to the great English classics, and never travels without a bundle of books, but she would not force reading on a child who has no taste for it. She has always been a Dry, but is opposed to Prohibition heart and soul, and she angered the political Drys by declaring that the average American girl of to-day is faced with the problem of learning, very young, of how much intoxicants she can drink with safety, and then sticking to the proper quantity. That was the candid thought of a mother who knows society as it is, and understands the perils of her children are not to be met by pretending they do not exist.

"I believe very strongly it is better to allow children too much freedom than too little," she says, "that it is better for them to get their feet wet than to be told at the age of fifteen to put on their rubbers. Each generation must learn by its own experience, and though it may be hard to watch our children go through the same mistakes that we made ourselves, it will do no good to pursue them with warnings. All we can do is to be worthy of their confidence." Mrs. Roosevelt never established a nursery in her home, and encouraged her children to take part in the conversation with the visitors to the house from the earliest years.

Dress Simplicity

Wealthy and leisured women in the United States have chided Mrs. Roosevelt for being so undignified as to earn money while her husband is a public man. She has worked principally to keep her favourite charities alive, but secondarily to supplement the family income. Contrary to general belief, Mr. Roosevelt is not a rich man. Compared with Mr. Hoover, he is poor. He is a country gentleman who inherited about one hundred thousand dollars from his father, and a similar amount from his half-brother. The beautiful Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park belongs to the President's mother.

Despite the great amount of entertaining she does, Mrs. Roosevelt knows how difficult it is for a

By The Kelly Headache.

Kelly is sick. At least that's what the lazy devil says. He was sick last week, and poor little Junior had to write his column. Now that he's been on the beer again, it falls to the lot of the poor household drudge to do his work.

Being only his wife, of course, it's not for the likes of me to complain. Being only the poor, wretched slave that he took, young unsophisticated and innocent from a mother's loving arms, who am I to utter a word?

But let me tell you, Mr. Editor, just the sort of a husband he's been to me.

I know the wretch only married me for my money. And since that unhappy day, he's taken my all. He has tramped on my girlish affections, in the same way as he tramples into the house with his muddy boots.

I've tried—oh, how I've tried to reform him. I've talked to him from morning until mid-night about the evils of strong drink and all the brute does is walk out of the house.

And he's cruel. Oh, Mr. Editor, he's so cruel. Junior used his razor to sharpen a lead pencil and the depraved person swore at him—at my son—and threw a shaving brush at him.

Yes, Sir, I've tried everything. My mother offered him $100 to provide evidence for our divorce. He laughed at her—a twisted, cynical sort of laugh—and told her he hated corruption more than anything else in the world. She offered him $200 and he smiled a half-twisted sort of smile and said no previous attempt had been made to corrupt him. Mother offered him $400. He called that a business proposition and took the $400.

But then Mother called him a rascal, a philanderer, and a good-for-nothing. She said I was a fool to have married him.

That was too much for me, Mr. Editor. My judgment was impaired. I must either lose face or go back to Kelly. I went back. And let me tell you, Sir, it was not because of the $400. I always was opposed to corruption.

ETIQUETTE

In spite of the fact that so many of us talpans have been forced by circumstances to get rid of our powerful limousines, our yachts, and all that sort of thing, there is no reason why we should not continue to study those observances of polite society which have made the Colony what she is. Heaven help her. This being so, we beg to offer a few problems in the new etiquette:

(Q) Mr. and Mrs. B. have gone to the pictures. Nowadays they can afford only the front seats but as soon as the lights go down they duck and crawl back to the more aristocratic back stalls. In the dark, however, Mr. B. has the misfortune to sit down on somebody's hat.

(A) Mr. B. should get back on the floor again and commence to miaoou. Everybody will take him for the theatre cat. If he is stroked, he should purr, and he may even be offered a saucer of milk, which is not to be sneezed at in these straitened days.

BROKE.

(Q) You have staying with you an unwelcome guest in the shape of a bailiff but when visitors arrive you introduce him as an old college chum who is staying with you. But, as it happens, he has just left your friends under similar circumstances, and they know him well.

(A) Invite the bailiff to make up a four at bridge, solo whist, nap, coddam, or any other game bailiffs are likely to play. He is the only person present who is likely to have any money, and you may win it from him if you have any luck.

THE MARCH OF SCIENCE.

A research worker has discovered that sound waves will control bacteria and so arrest the decay of food. The sound waves can be produced on an ordinary musical instrument. We look forward to the prospect of a Dairy Farm Salesman serenading a sirloin of beef with a saxophone to prolong its life; or to the comradore menacing with a mouth-organ an over-ripe Gorgonzola to prevent it walking out on him. Chilled eggs of all ages would doubtless hum an accompaniment.

CURE FOR PACIFISM.

Years ago we were friendly with a man who suddenly became a ranting pacifist. Argument being useless, we put the matter to the test one day by giving the pacifist a smart box on the ears. To our joy a light followed. The ranter now readily admits that primitive instincts are paramount.

BRITISH INITIATIVEDISARMAMENT
OUTLOOK
SIR JOHN SIMON
HOPEFUL

London, March 28. In making a statement to the House of Commons on the present position of the Disarmament Conference, Sir John Simon, who returned from Geneva by air this morning, said the General Commission yesterday unanimously decided to take the British draft convention as the basis of subsequent discussions, delegations retaining the right to propose modifications, amendments and additions.

The Conference adjourned until 28th April when it will examine the convention chapter by chapter and article by article.

Sir John Simon added: "This British initiative, which involves the pursuit of new methods—the placing before the conference of a comprehensive scheme in convention form so that each question may be studied in relation to the other necessary questions—has been received with general satisfaction as giving the best prospect for reaching an agreed solution."

DEMANDING
DISTRICT WATCHMAN
CHARGED

Charges of demanding $500 with menaces from Wu Ping-leung, a carpenter, and assaulting him, were brought against District Watchman Lo Tak-wong, stationed at the Tai Ping Shan Watch-house, before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning. The charges were explained to the accused who was remanded for seven days, on bail of $500.

Sub-inspector Fraser:—Sub-inspector Elston is in charge of this case, and I have been instructed to ask for a week's remand.

The Magistrate:—Is it going to be for commitment?

Sub-insp. Fraser:—I couldn't say, your Worship.

AIR SECRET
PROBEDNEW WONDER PLANE
AT HESTONFREAK WHICH HAS POSSIBILITIES

An attempt to take a short cut from the aerodrome to the car park at Heston Airport recently, caused a London pressman to stumble on the solution to the "great Heston mystery" and to see, through a small window in one of the sheds, one of the most extraordinary flying machines ever constructed.

In essentials it seems to consist of a body, mounted on a three-wheel under carriage, and lifted by a three-bladed rotor spinning above the pilot's head.

He saw standing on the ground what appeared rather like the skeleton of a canvas canoe. It was a tubular structure, mounted on three small wheels with low pressure tyres, on which trailing at the rear of the body, the other two being wide apart in front.

The pilot's cockpit has a control wheel mounted vertically. In the nose, there is an ordinary air-cooled radial engine, but it is mounted the opposite way round to the normal—that is, with the airscrew side pointed towards the body of the machine. On the other side is an ordinary car type starting handle.

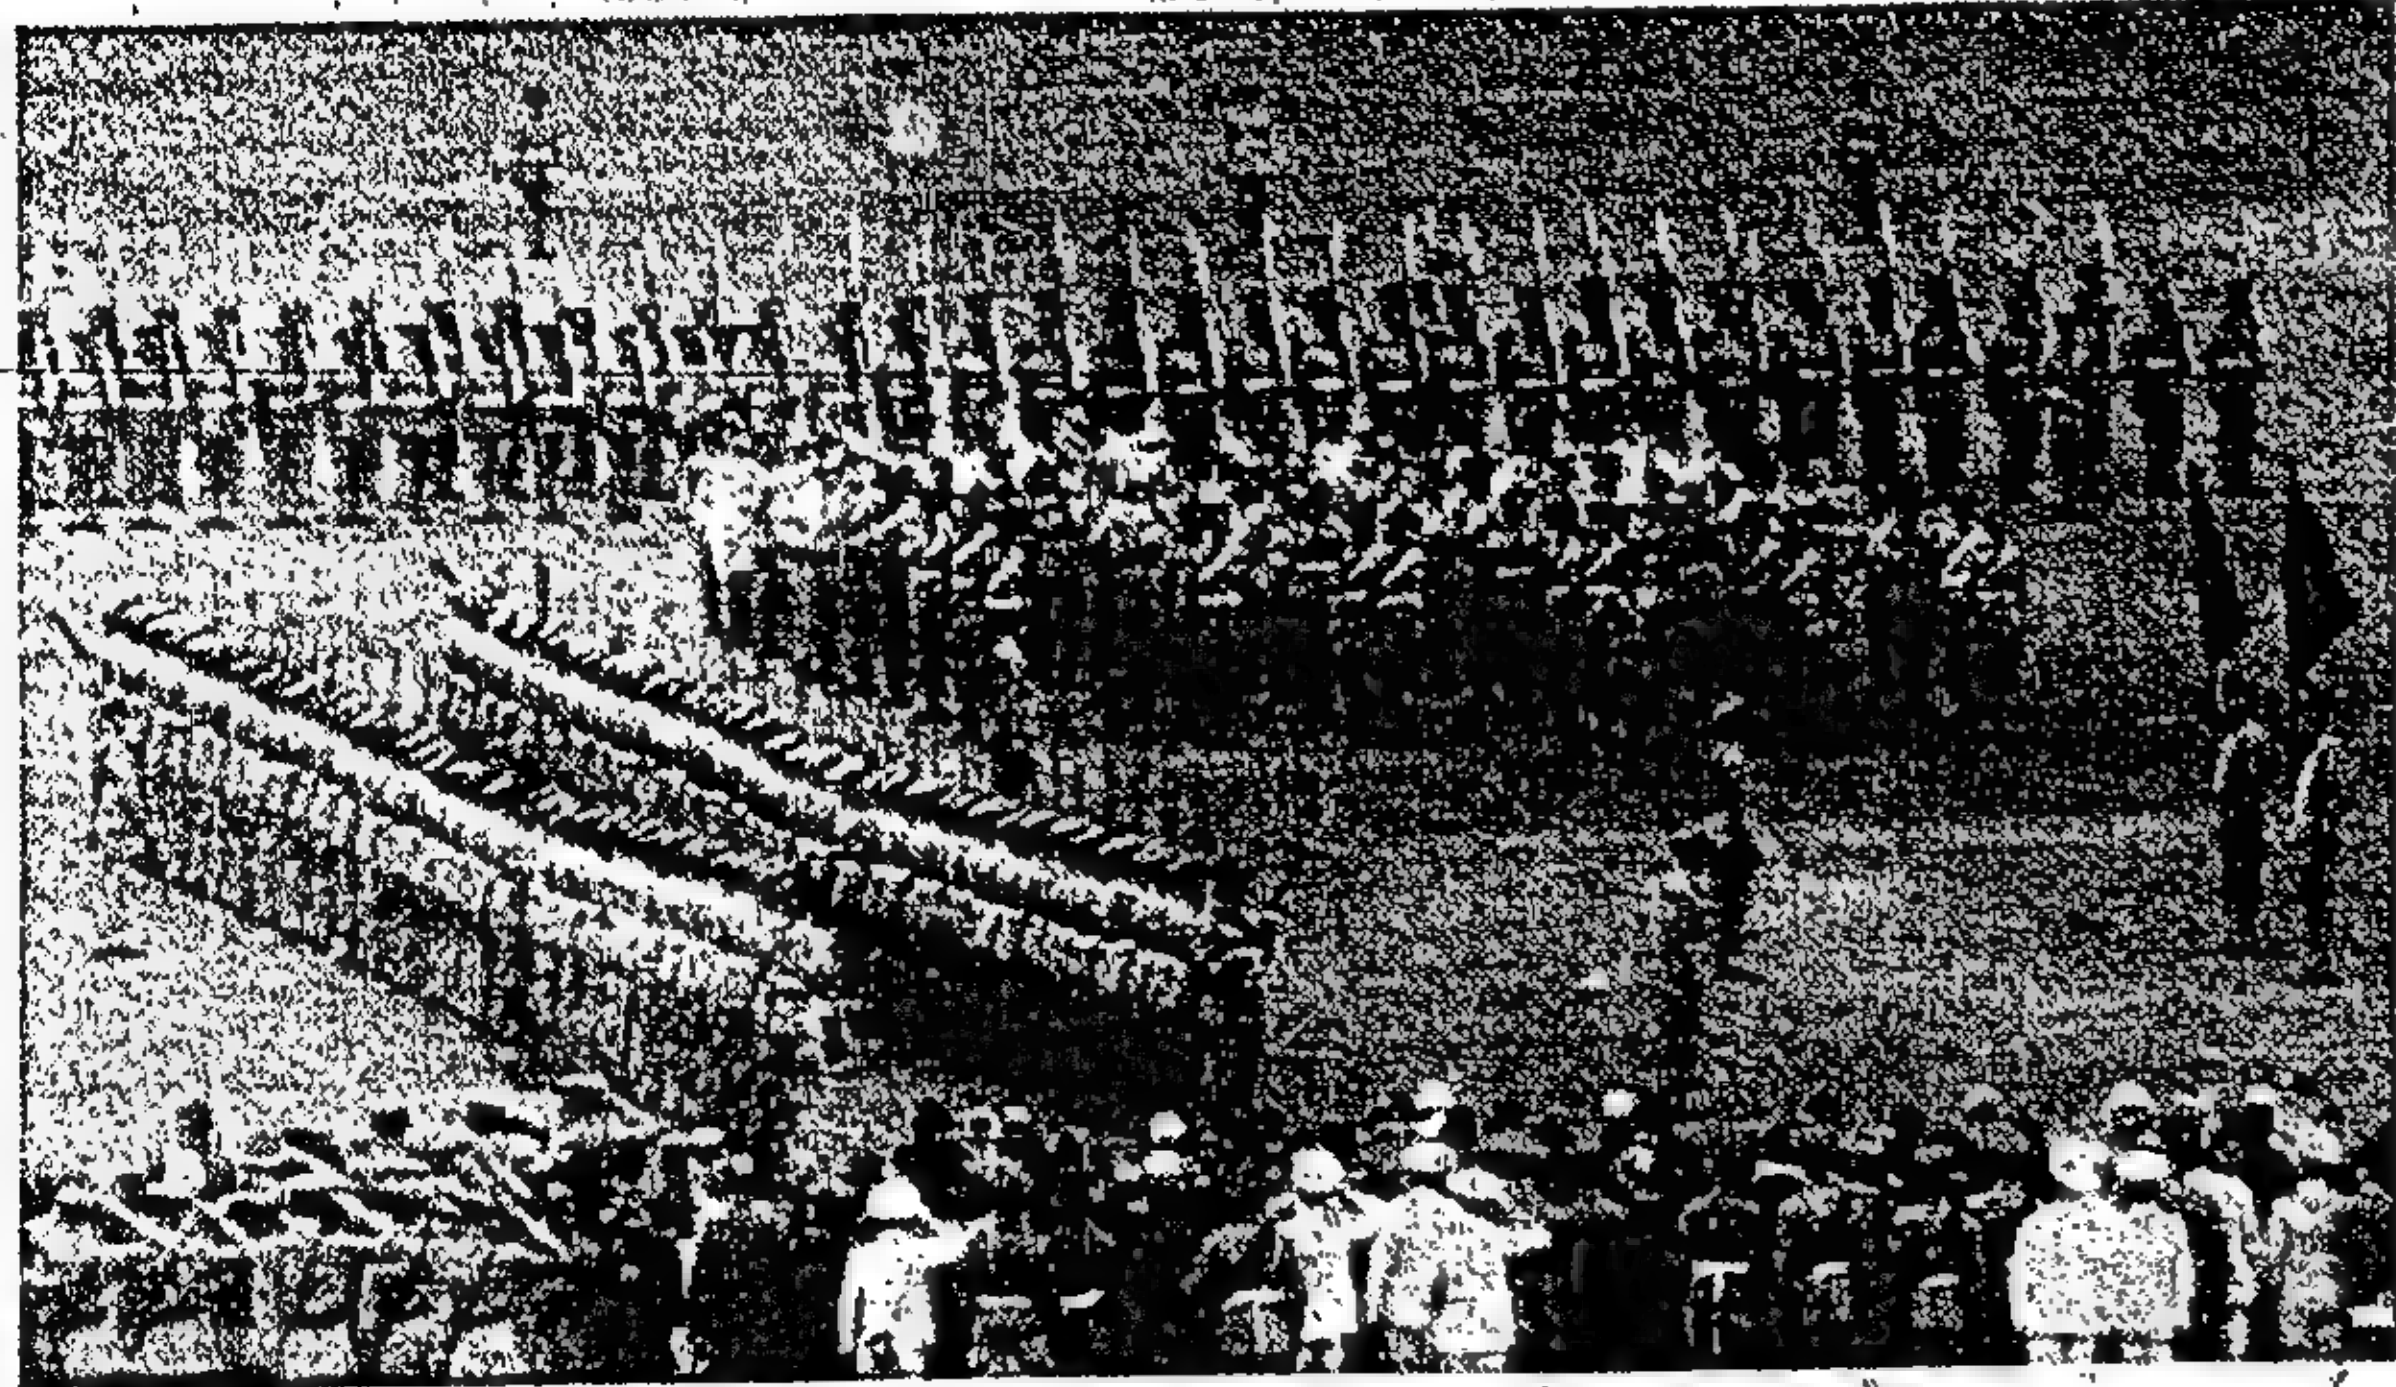

In front of the pilot's cockpit, on top of the bodywork, there is a large cone, having fittings to take three rotor blades as well as small connecting rods.

It is impossible to do more than surmise the purpose of these connecting rods, but it may be that they are used to cause a rising and falling of the rotating blades. In other words, the machine may combine the helicopter and ornithopter principles, the blades of the rotor not only rotating but also flapping through a small angle.

The rear part of the body is formed to take some kind of tail structure; but this could not be seen.

It is believed that this machine will be ready for test in the near future and that it will be demonstrated by its inventor at Heston. It is also reported that it has already made a flight in Austria.

By unbelievers, it is called the "Wonderplane," because they wonder if it will fly; but the superficial examination which he was able to conduct shows that it represents a carefully thought out and genuinely interesting experi-

LADIES' GOLF UNION
ABANDON TOURPROGRAMME TOO EXHAUST-ING; ONLY TO VISIT SOUTH AFRICA

London, Mar. 16. Delegates at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Golf Union turned down the projected seven months' tour of the Dominions. The Executive Council had decided that the tour should embrace South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand and twenty players had been invited to make up a team of six.

One delegate after another condemned the tour, saying it was far too exhausting and, owing to its length, many prominent golfers could not undertake the trip. However, by an overwhelming majority it was agreed that a British women's team should be sent to South Africa.

Thirty-seven cases of small-pox with twenty deaths, five cases of diphtheria with four deaths, seven cases of typhoid with one death (one imported), and six cases of meningitis with four deaths, together with fifty-three deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the health authorities last week. On Monday a case of small-pox, one case of diphtheria and two cases of typhoid were also reported. Ten of the small-pox cases came from Victoria district, and one from Kowloon.

Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the evidence, the case against four Chinese who were charged with abducting money with menaces from Lo Yin-king, a prostitute, and from Wat Kau, shop manager, ended before Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday afternoon in the discharge of all four defendants. Mr. Hin-shing, Lo appeared for one of the defendants, who was employed as a cook at the Government Civil Hospital, and Mr. G. Y. Kwai for a district watchman, one of the other three defendants. Mr. Cole represented Wat Kau.

"THE CANTON CLUB"
FINANCIAL POSITION
EXPLAINED

The annual general meeting of the Canton Club was held on March 16, in the club theatre, Mr. K. Neckelman presiding. The chairman in the course of his address to the meeting reviewed the club's financial position, the question of overdraft, and the satisfactory arrangement came to with the H.K. and Shanghai Bank. The bank had agreed to an increase of the overdraft to $30,000 on condition that the club made provision for decreasing this by $4,000 annually, and also to pay for upkeep out of profits. In order to carry this out, it became necessary not only to increase the club's revenue, but also to effect considerable savings on all expenditure.

Having detailed various items of finance, the savings effected being explained in full, the chairman continued:

The Theatre.

As regards the club theatre, I should like to mention that a rather extensive repair to the roof had to be carried out. As your committee did not intend to utilize the theatre for the ordinary dances, and it would consequently be used for performances by the Canton Amateur Theatrical Society, and on special occasions only, it was rather difficult to decide whether the club could reasonably be expected to go to any large expenditure in order to keep the theatre in safe condition. In my opinion the club could not be expected to do so, but we were prevailed upon from many sides to do our utmost to retain the theatre, as the general opinion seemed to be that it would be a great loss to the community if the theatre was given up. I, therefore, arranged to hold a meeting with the committee of the Canton Amateur Theatrical Society who would feel the loss of the theatre more than anybody else, as they would have no other place wherein to produce their performances. The Canton Amateur Theatrical Society understood the situation very well, and on behalf of the club I wish to express my gratitude for the willingness they showed in helping us through a difficult situation by donating Hongkong $1,000 towards the repairs of the club theatre. (Applause).

The Secretary.

In order to effect savings which would run into bigger figures, it was with the very greatest regret that your committee found it necessary to discontinue the services of our secretary, who has given such valuable work during a long succession of years, but this was unavoidable. The club in its present financial situation cannot afford the services of a paid foreign secretary. I wish to take the opportunity to thank Captain R. M. Hunt for the very valuable services he has given us. I furthermore want to thank him for coming to our rescue in our great difficulty by offering to serve as honorary secretary. Capt. Hunt stood by us through a period of the greatest difficulty and has made it possible for us gradually to make other arrangements. After this meeting, Captain Hunt has decided to resign as honorary secretary for private reasons which will be known to all of you. I am certain that you will be pleased to learn that your committee decided to make Captain Hunt an honorary member of the club in recognition of his past services, and I feel sure you will all join me in wishing him all the best for his future happiness. (Loud applause).

To effect further savings a number of boys, coolies and the librarian were dismissed, and I feel certain that the club's finances are now on a sound basis, and if the present policy is continued I not only expect it possible to carry through all that we have promised our bankers; but I furthermore see a possibility during the coming year to reduce the price on drinks which ought to be welcome news to all the members. (Applause).

Ladies' Help.

Before concluding, I want to thank the ladies who have helped to make arrangements whenever we held club dances. Without their very able assistance the dances would not have been possible. I should not think that any one can have failed to notice how the appearance of the club garden has improved during the last year. This is entirely due to the efforts of Mrs. Wolcott, who not only worked out the plans for the new layout, but also spent a very great deal of time and work in seeing the work being carried out properly, and procuring the necessary plants. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Wolcott

ROBBERS WOUND
WOMANRECEIVES BULLET
IN LEG

The police at Kowloon City are investigating a wounding case, of which the victim is a married woman To Ying-tai, aged 36 years, who is now lying in the Kowloon Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the leg. Her injury is regarded as not serious.

A brief report at Police Headquarters this morning, stated that the woman lived in an unnumbered hut in Cheung Wan, which is situated near Ma Tau Kok. Six men, armed with two revolvers and a dagger, broke into the hut shortly before midnight last night. The woman put up a strong resistance, and one of the men opened fire, the bullet entering her leg. The woman lay helpless for a considerable time, and it was not until 7.45 this morning that a report was lodged at the Kowloon City Police Station of the affair.

The intruders, after ransacking the hamlet, ran away with a quantity of clothing. They were seen to board a boat and to row in the direction of Quarry Bay.

CROWD SHOUTS
FOR RECTORDISPERSED AT VISIONS' CHURCH BY POLICE

Police persuaded a crowd to disperse from the rectory grounds of Middleton, near Sudbury, Suffolk, where the rector, the Rev. F. C. Luget, has declared that he has seen visions of angels and sacred figures inside and near the church.

Mr. Luget said Mass to 23 people, and then announced that the church and the grounds would be closed, and that there would be no more services during the day.

Several hundred people gathered outside the rectory gates in the afternoon, and they were addressed by Mr. P. H. Rand, a Wycliffe preacher.

The crowd opened the gates and, swarming over the rectory grounds, gathered in front of the house, calling on the rector to come out. He did not respond.

Attempts were made to get into the church, but after about half an hour's demonstration the police who had been on duty both in the grounds and outside the church during the morning, persuaded the crowd to go.

THAT CRASHED

While Mrs. De'ath, of Churt-road, Hindhead, was looking in a window of Debenham and Freebody, the West End drapers, a pane of glass fell from a window above.

She was not struck, but suffered so much from shock that she had been under the care of doctors ever since.

There was a sequel in the King's Bench when damages of $700 were awarded by Mr. Justice du Parcq to Mrs. De'ath against Messrs. Debenham and Freebody.

Giving judgment, Mr. Justice du Parcq said the accident was a most curious one, the result of which was that Mrs. De'ath had been turned into a nervous wreck.

CHINESE VIEW ON DISARMAMENT

DR. KOO CRITICISES RESERVATION

Geneva, Mar. 27.
Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister to France and one of the Chinese delegates, at Geneva, speaking before the General Disarmament Commission to-day, generally supported the British Disarmament Plan, but criticised certain points. He pointed out that China, on account of her scrupulous respect for treaties, had undergone during the past 18 months, and was still undergoing, with increasing severity, an aggression which was generally and judicially recognised as such by the world. Dr. Koo felt, therefore the need for reinforcing the League Covenant in order to ensure a speedier and more effective system of collective responsibility for the prevention of aggression.

Air Bombing.

Dr. Koo took special exception to the British suggestion regarding the reservation of the air bombardment for police purposes in outlying districts. He said aerial bombing had now a terrible meaning for the Chinese people. Its form of warfare was extremely efficacious against national defence and was most threatening for civilian populations. The phrase "police measures" had become an ominous expression for the Chinese people.

Dr. Koo added that China had never had any army, navy or air force answering requirements of special circumstances, but the present experience was a lesson. She was faced with the pressing need of a coastal defence and air force. Her inadequate system of defence had induced aggression. Consequently, China was compelled to make reservations regarding the basis for calculating her armaments.

Dr. Koo particularly objected to the allocation of only 100 aeroplanes to China in the British draft plan.—Reuter.

DEBT PARLEY.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR AND U.S. SECRETARY

Washington, Mar. 28.
"We all kept our shirts on, anyway."

This was all that the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, would say to pressmen to-day about his further conversation with Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and their respective financial advisers. The conference took place to-day regarding the world economic conference and war debts.

Mr. Hull was more communicative and stated they had continued their preliminary tentative discussion on the world economic situation. He expected to continue the talks which were extremely valuable in clarifying the views of the officials of the two countries.—Reuter's Special.

AN ACT OF WAR

COLOMBIANS ATTACK GUEPI

Lima, Peru, Mar. 28.
What is regarded here as the first act of war by Colombia against Peru occurred when Colombian troops, supported by gunboats and aeroplanes, attacked the Peruvian possession of Guepi on the Putumayo River, not previously considered to be within the disputed territory.

The Peru-Colombia dispute, which is being pushed ahead without reference to the League of Nations, concerns the possession of Leticia.

It is reported that the Peruvians have mined the river Amazon in the vicinity of Leticia, making it almost impossible for the Colombian gunboats to operate there.—Reuter's Special.

A CHILDREN'S DAY.

TO BE MADE ANNUAL EVENT IN HONGKONG

A group of local doctors and business men, in response to an ideal expressed, are making preparations to inaugurate a movement for setting aside April 4 every year as a Children's Day in the Chinese community. The object is to fall in line with the National Child Welfare Association of Shanghai, which in observing the Day for the first time last year, expressly urged the whole of China to co-operate. Just as in England and the United States, where a Children's Day is observed regularly every year, so in China this annual festival will be permanently placed on the calendar.

As Ching Ming and Easter fall during the first two weeks in April this year, many may be away for their vacation, so the committee responsible for organizing the Children's Day in Hongkong have considered it expedient to observe the occasion on April 19, 20, 21 and 22.

During these four days, there will be an exhibition of toys, children's food, clothing, toilet articles etc. at the Hop Yut Church, Caine Road. In addition, there will be a health contest consisting of a physical examination daily, by medical practitioners during the first three days.

Those desiring their children (age-limit 3 to 12) to participate may secure registration forms from either the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Bridges Street, or from the South China Athletic Association, China Building. Registration will commence on April 1 and close on April 12.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall will formally open the Children's Health

hurry to inquire secretly of Henri what was the price of her wrap or frock, whether it could be duplicated.

The prospect alarmed Sheila. It was welcome news, indeed, that she was to earn $50 a week but when Gordon explained what would be expected of her she doubted her ability.

"Just be yourself," Gordon told her. "Slip into this gown and hat and walk around or sit just as the others do. Now and then pretend to inquire about a purchase."

"But I don't know anything about modelling!" the girl protested.

"Neither do our clients. They'll think you are one of themselves."

In another five minutes Sheila was dressed and ready. "You'll be all right. It's easy," the red-haired girl reassured her.

Sheila stepped again into the soft glow of the outer salon. She hesitated, then moved on. As she did so her eyes fell on a familiar figure directly across the room.

"THE MINNESOTA SHIFT"

SOME credit Dr. Harry Williams, former coach of the University of Minnesota, with the development of shift plays. His first shift, now known as the "Minnesota shift," was produced in 1909, and had a lot of opposing teams guessing.

It is worked this way: The six forwards line up a few yards back of center, with the backs in formation behind them. At the signal, the line-men "hit" into line, followed by the backs, who take up the position before the play. This position can be either to right or left of center, in order to outflank the opposing defense.

Numerous plays can be worked from this shift, from line backs and end runs, to passes and trick reverses.

SECRET OF THE ATOM

A NEW CONCEPTION OF MATTER

A discovery of far-reaching importance has been made by two Cambridge scientists, Mr. P. M. S. Blackett, of King's College, and Dr. G. Occhialini, an Italian.

Working at the famous Cavendish Laboratory they have discovered by photography a new type of electron. It has been called the "googlie" electron, though the discoverers will not themselves use that term.

Dr. Occhialini, who has been working in England with Mr. Blackett for 18 months, had his table littered with photographs of the electron when visited at the laboratory.

NEARLY AS FAST AS LIGHT.

He explained that the electron is different from those hitherto known to science in that it turns a different way under magnetic influence.

It has a life of only a few thousandths of a millionth of a second. "It has nearly the velocity of light," he continued. "It travels at about 300,000 kilometres per second."

"We cannot photograph the electron itself. It moves too fast. What we get can be compared to the dust of a car or the smoke of an aeroplane, which shows the direction taken."

"We have taken over 500 photographs."

"We take a photograph for each ray. This gives us a big yield and we can accumulate results quickly."

23 STREAKS.

Some of the plates show 23 rays running across like faint streaks. Some are straight; these have not been deflected. Some are curly.

WILL ACTORS STRIKE?

THE "JOLLY ROGER" PROBLEM

Mr. George Robey is the central figure in a situation that may develop into the first great test of the strength of the new trade union organisation of actors and actresses, British Equity.

The Theatrical Managers' Association, which represents touring and provincial managers, has declared its refusal to recognise Equity unless it abandons methods of compulsion.

There has been no official pronouncement yet, however, from the Society of West End Managers, with whom representatives of Equity will probably have a meeting.

A "CLOSED SHOP."

Mr. Godfrey Tearle, the president of British Equity, said:

"If Mr. Robey maintains his present attitude I do not see that we have any alternative to calling out our members when 'Jolly Roger' comes to London."

"The 'closed shop' for London was decided upon by a ballot of the whole of our members. If we make an exception in the case of Mr. Robey, where are we to stop?"

"I did not allude personally to persuade Mr. Robey to give us a (Continued on Next Columns.)"

These are the googlie electrons. Both sorts appear on the same plates.

The photographs are taken at terrific speed by a ray which is so powerful that it will go through 80 inches of lead.

One notable point about the new electron is that it has a positive instead of a negative charge.

FALL OF 100,000 TONS OF CLIFF

RECEDING COAST LINE

More than 250 feet of cliff, estimated to weigh over 100,000 tons, fell on to the beach at Sidestrand, three miles south of Cromer, during the early hours of Feb. 18.

The fall involved ploughed land owned by Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary for India. The cliff is two miles from the Cromer-Mundesley coast road and a similar distance from Sir Samuel Hoare's Norfolk home, Sidestrand Hall. At this part of the coast three falls of cliff have occurred during the past 2½ years, and among the vanished landmarks is "The Garden of Sleep," made famous by Clement Scott.

During the past 50 years the North Norfolk coast-line has receded 360 yards, entire villages having been destroyed by sea erosion.

way out by joining the Variety Artists' Federation or showing he was a manager if he preferred to stay out of Equity. But all I got was a flat refusal."

If the members of the "Jolly Roger" company should be called out and refuse to comply, they would lose their membership and, thus, supposing Equity members as a body stand by their union, would be barred from appearing with Equity members in other plays.

According to the latest figures, of 749 actors and actresses on the London stage 607 are members of Equity and 41 members of the Stage Guild and the Variety Artists' Federation, and thus eligible to work with Equity members.

A LOST CITY

ARTIST STUMBLES ON RUINS OF CAPITAL

A wandering painter, searching the wild moors around Clermont-Ferrand, in Auvergne, for subjects for his brush, has found a lost city, believed to be Gergovie, the legendary capital of Gaul. Experts believe it to be one of the most important finds of its kind ever made in France.

The painter, M. Maurice Buset, curator of the museum at Clermont-Ferrand, stumbled on ruins among the undergrowth. He traced out the remains of a Roman wall and found further buildings, some practically intact, and enclosing stone huts of pre-Roman architecture. The experts declare that the ruins are the traditional scene of a great defeat inflicted about 52 B.C. by the Gauls on Caesar.
